OPEN SOURCE INFORMATION

OPEN SOURCE COLLECTION

The Information Service provides a library of open source publications in many languages and reflecting the needs and interests of the Center. The library is growing in size to an increasing number of titles, books and more than 200 periodicals. It includes text, pictorial and geographic publications, technical subjects such as optics, photography, photogrammetry and imagery, handbooks, and guides to maps, scientific studies, etc.

The Library offers these services:

- Reference and research service often involving use of collections in other libraries
- Loan service for publications in the collection
- Inter-library loan of material in other libraries
- Compilation of special bibliographies
- Monthly accession list of new material
- Reference collection of handbooks, indexes, dictionaries, encyclopedias, etc.
- A special file of new publications received
- Facilities for the procurement of books, periodicals, pamphlets, catalogs, both for the library collection and for patrons
- Routing of publications on demand in response to expressed interest
- Procurement of translations as requested
- Maintenance of special collections on imagery, camouflage and various aspects of aerial reconnaissance
